

OUTober 2016

We call for the end of the world as we know it. We call for the end of racism and sexism and bigotry, violence and discrimination and homophobia as we know it. And we will not be denied.

- Urvashi Vaid

Reading Our Many Pasts

Wednesday, October 26th, 7 pm, HFSC Social Room

Join us for reflections from Urvashi Vaid, an award winning author, attorney, and organizer in the LGBTQ and Broader Social Justice Community whose work aims to address structural inequalities based on intersecting identities. Vaid's work honors the importance of building the foundations of a movement in the context of the many histories from which our lives flow forth. Her efforts range from creating an LGBT/HIV Criminal Justice network to researching global sexual orientation and gender identity issues. Professor Dana Luciano will join Urvashi Vaid for conversation and will moderate the Q&A that follows.

ACCESSIBLE

Persons requiring additional assistance or information should contact the LGBTQ Resource Center at 202.687.3546 or lgbtq@georgetown.edu

Dana Luciano is Associate Professor of English and a former Director of the Women's and Gender Studies Program at Georgetown University, where she teaches sexuality and gender studies, environmental humanities, 19th century US literature, feminist and queer theory, and queer film. She has taught at Georgetown since 2004.

Presented by:

LGBTQ
RESOURCE CENTER
lgbtq.georgetown.edu

Tagliabue Initiative
for LGBTQ Life

The Lecture Fund
OF GEORGETOWN UNIVERSITY

In Partnership with:

Department of English
GU Pride
GU Queer People of Color
Office of Institutional Diversity,
Equity, and Affirmative Action